“Would like” is a polite way to say “I want” in English. “Would like” es una forma cortés para decir “yo quiero.” For example:

“I want to buy a ticket” is impolite because “I want” sounds selfish and arrogant. “yo quiero comprar una entrada” suena descortés, egoísta y arrogante.

“I would like to buy a ticket please” is polite and friendly. “Me gustaría comprar una entrada por favor” suena cortés y amigable.

Grammar rules for would like. Reglas gramaticales.

“I would like” is followed by an infinitive verb or a noun. Would like + verbo o sustantivo.

“I would like to book a double room for Saturday.” (infinitive verb “to book”.) Me gustaría reservar una habitación doble para el sábado. (verbo infinitivo “reservar”)

“I would like a single room for Saturday.” (noun “a single room”.) Me gustaría una habitación simple para el sábado. (sustantivo “habitación simple”)

You can abbreviate the “would” to ‘d:

I'd like - You'd like - He'd like - She'd like - We'd like - They'd like

To form the negative, add “not” or the abbreviation “n’t” to “would”:
